

Willis, Humana, the Fristoe Group to Offer Employee Benefit Products Tailored For the Collision Repair Industry

Overland Park, KS (Evans Media Group) September 27, 2010 — The Fristoe Group, a contributor for the Sherwin-Williams Automotive Finishes A-Plus Network and a provider of human resource services, announced today that it has teamed with Willis Employee Benefits and insurer Humana Inc. to create a specially-designed employee benefits package for the collision repair industry. The benefits are available either at no cost to the employer or with employer contributions, and allow employers to offer their employees financial security insurance plans that may not be otherwise available to individuals.

The People Side of Business

The package includes three plan types:

- Whole life insurance plans
- Accident insurance plans, which provide coverage for off-the-job accidental injuries
- Critical illness plans, which offer financial protection in the event of a serious illness such as heart attack, cancer and others.

All three insurance products are offered on a guarantee-issue basis if employer-based participation requirements are met, meaning that employees can not be denied coverage.

“Employers of all types and sizes are struggling to offer insurance benefits to employees, but the collision repair industry has been particularly under fire,” said Daren Fristoe, owner and president of The Fristoe Group (TFG). “This will be a very attractive solution to these employers because it offers a low cost or even zero-cost option for employers to offer financial security that employees desperately need in this economy.”

Daren Fristoe

Fristoe noted that he expects additional plans and coverage options, such as medical, dental and vision to be introduced as the program expands in the coming months.

The specially-designed benefits packages will be available to all members of the collision repair industry nationwide. For more information, to schedule a meeting or request a custom proposal contact The Fristoe Group at www.thefristoegroup.com or (816) 392-7298.
